GIVING 2019

With your support, MOAA is helping military families thrive.
As we enter into a new decade, it gives me great pleasure to present to you MOAA’s 2019 annual report for both the MOAA Scholarship Fund and the MOAA Foundation. These two charities not only represent the meaning behind service, sacrifice, and dedication, but they fully encapsulate our motto to “never stop serving.”

First, I would like to thank all of you who chose to donate to one or both charities in 2019, especially those of you who continue to give annually. Your generosity is demonstrated throughout this report along with a few examples of the impact your contributions have made on the lives of military families.

Looking back on 2019, I feel a great sense of pride in the support our charities provided to this community and the selflessness of our donors. Thousands of servicemembers and veterans and their families received professional development support, benefits information, financial education, grants, and interest-free student loans last year as a direct result of your contributions. While we can count how many people we have helped, donations we have collected, and services we provided, I think it is just as important to look at the long-term effects and the overall impact of these efforts.

As our nation faces a talent shortage, the military is forced to compete with corporate America in an ever-shrinking pool of eligible candidates. Our current battle rhythm requires 265,000 new members to join the military each year. When you take into consideration a number of disqualifying factors and propensity to serve, we are left with about 400,000 eligible candidates. Unfortunately, the numbers decrease even further when you take into account parental influence, as more than half of parents discourage their children from serving.

As leaders, and as donors, we have an opportunity to change the narrative surrounding military service and show our nation how strong our community is and how valued we are, and that military service opens doors and creates opportunities for our nation’s best and brightest. Our charities have helped enhance the reputation of military service by demonstrating the degree of dedication and loyalty those who have served have for one another, and by supporting outstanding future leaders. Winston Churchill once said, “We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give.”

With what you have given and continue to give, we are able to sustain this legacy and administer a lasting influence towards the military community. One of my fondest memories of last year occurred at an event this past Veterans Day, when I heard someone in the crowd thank a veteran for their service. The veteran replied, “You were worth it,” a sentiment that stuck with me. Your contributions send a clear message to the world: Those who make the decision to serve our country are worth it. Their spouses are worth it. Their children and loved ones are worth it. Our veterans and surviving spouses are worth it. I hope you recognize the importance of what giving to these charities means and recognize what you continue to give can be “worth it,” too.

The MOAA Scholarship Fund and the MOAA Foundation would not be where they are today without your unyielding efforts and support, and for this I extend my deepest appreciation to you.

AMANDA CENTERS
Vice President, Development

Centers was formerly the executive director of the MOAA Foundation. Among her accomplishments are conceptualizing and producing MOAA’s Military and Veteran Networking Forum and revitalizing MOAA’s Military Spouse Professional Development program.

ANDREA RAND
Executive Director, MOAA Scholarship Fund

Rand received her undergraduate degree from the University of Puget Sound and her JD from Lewis and Clark Law School. As a military spouse for more than 30 years, she is partial to the Coast Guard, as both her husband and older daughter are USCGA grads. Semper Paratus!

REBECCA CULHANE
Development Associate, Development

Culhane is a graduate of East Carolina University. She started in MOAA’s Member Service Center and transferred to working in Council and Chapters Affairs. In this role, Culhane provides database oversight and donor recognition and supports various fundraising initiatives.

JENNIFER GOODALE
Member, MOAA Spouse Programs

Goodale, a military spouse and Marine Corps veteran, supports the MOAA Foundation through fundraising and development work. She attended the University of North Carolina – Chapel Hill. Her family is currently at Marine Base Twentynine Palms, Calif. Semper Fi!

CATHY ARTINO
Development Program Manager, Development

Artino, a former associate editor of Military Officer, is an Ohio native and graduated with a degree in public relations from Kent State University. As the spouse of an Army aviator, she understands the challenges faced by military spouses. Artino and her husband are parents to a sassy 14-year-old shih tzu named Aidah.

DANIEL SLATTERY
Development Operations Associate, Development

A graduate of James Madison University, Slattery joined MOAA in 2017. He previously worked in the Member Service Center and Council & Chapter Affairs. In his new role, he supports initiatives from the MOAA Scholarship Fund, the Educational Assistance Program and the MOAA Foundation.

HELEN MARSHALL
Accounting Manager, Finance and Operations

Marshall is the accounting manager for the Educational Assistance program. Her main duty is to process student loan repayments. She is a native of Washington, D.C., and holds degrees from the University of the District of Columbia and the University of Maryland University College. She enjoys spending time with her beagle, Angel.

SYDNEY GEYER
Staff Accountant, Finance and Operations

Geyer is a staff accountant for MOAA’s Educational Assistance Program, engaging with families through the process of loan repayment. A graduate of the University of Virginia with dual degrees in psychology and popular culture, Geyer is a native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and a lover of The New York Times daily crossword puzzle.

Helping Military Families Through Education

Maurie J. Mayer, USAF (Ret), a member of MOAA’s board of directors, is committed to giving back to the military in gratitude for the life it afforded her.

“It gave me a lot of confidence,” she said. “It opened up my world view. It allowed me to finish off my master’s degree. It gave me a real insight into people because I met all kinds of people from everywhere. The military also gave me the discretionary income to do some things that I couldn’t have done otherwise.”

Since retiring from the Air Force after a 30-year career to a home in her native Oregon, she has dedicated countless hours to veterans affairs, working at local, state, and national levels to help veterans receive the benefits to which they are entitled. She has a specific focus: women veterans who often don’t realize they qualify for benefits.

A high school teacher before entering the military, she’s also funded the Col. Mary J. Mayer, USAF (Ret) Designated Scholarship through the MOAA Scholarship Fund for children of retired, currently serving, and former officers as well as the children of retired and currently serving enlisted personnel.

“I decided that was the best way I could help military families, or military — period,” Mayer said.

“The one thing you can’t take away from a person is their education. That’s the one thing that can open doors and can support people,” she said. “It’s just so heartening to know that you’re helping them on their way. They have so many great plans for the future. Maybe this will help somebody, and they won’t be homeless; they won’t be without a job.”

Mayer has nothing but praise for the MOAA Scholarship Fund.

“I think it’s probably one of the better scholarships that I’ve ever been exposed to because it just reaches so many people and it’s very well run.”

Mayer also is a MOAA Foundation donor.

“The foundation is fabulous,” she said. “They are doing so many wonderful things. I’ve committed for five years of paying $1,000.”

Leo White, a visual effects major at the Savannah College of Art and Design in Savannah, Ga., is the recipient of the Col. Mary J. Mayer, USAF (Ret) Designated Scholarship (see story at left). White grew up near the Atlanta area, and he’s interested in soccer, tennis, judo, sci-fi, and visual effects. He enjoys learning and reading, and he looks forward to traveling the world.

“The MOAA scholarship program has enabled me to thrive in educational programming that may otherwise be difficult to attain. I have appreciated the opportunity to truly create a well-rounded education in my field of interests and look forward to thriving in the industry. I would like to thank the MOAA Scholarship Fund for providing unmatched educational funding opportunities and support to military families.”

MOAA Life Member Col. Rettig P. Benedict Jr., USAF (Ret), and wife Michele are MOAA scholarship donors who hope their generosity will help young men and women from military families have a brighter future. Education is a priority for Rettig, who has a Ph.D. in physics, and Michele, an artist who taught both adults and children.

‘Clearly, [military kids’] families have served their country without great financial rewards, so if we can help the next generation, we will — just as we have helped our grandchildren, as needed — to get their education. MOAA scholarships can help resolve or ameliorate that challenge.

The MOAA requirements for rapid repayment encourage fiscal responsibility development, somewhat in contrast to some government loan programs. These scholarships provide a hand up, not a handout, and we think that is important for the next generations.’

Col. Rettig P. Benedict Jr., USAF (Ret)

Courtney Comar is the recipient of a MOAA loan and senior grant. She’s a Ph.D. student in microbiology, virology, and parasitology at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. Her thesis work focuses on coronaviruses, which includes the one currently in the news. When not in the laboratory, Comar can be found walking her puppy, taking a yoga class, baking cookies, or singing.

“I am interested in emerging infectious diseases and diagnostic detection of infectious diseases and hope to direct a public health laboratory or a hospital clinical microbiology lab someday. I am grateful for the opportunities MOAA provides for students. The MOAA loan and senior grant helped make my undergraduate degree very affordable and left me with a very manageable amount of student loan debt.”

Phyllis Schaeffer funded a $25,000 scholarship in memory of her father, Master Sgt. Miles C. Schaeffer, USAF (Ret), who spent most of his career in public and community relations. She said the Air Force gave her parents, inset, a life they would have never been able to have otherwise.

‘The scholarship is a way to honor [my father] and thank him. Education was always important to my dad, so it seemed like a perfect match. It’s truly one of the best things I’ve ever done in my life. I hope it will give a young man or woman the opportunity to get an education they wouldn’t have otherwise been able to get.’

WHAT YOUR DOLLARS SUPPORT
MOAA Foundation-funded programs serve the entire uniformed service community. We focus on four areas of vital military family and veteran need, aligned with areas of particular MOAA national and local expertise:

- Career transition
- Professional education outreach
- Military spouse professional development
- Community outreach

Members of the Greater Dallas and North Texas Chapter of MOAA, including Lt. Col. Charles Kelley, USAF (Ret), far left, support the Veterans Center of North Texas.

In 2014, members of the Greater Dallas and the North Texas chapters of MOAA founded the Veterans Center of North Texas (VCONT), which helps about 1,000 veterans and their families each year to access benefits and services. Today, about 13 members of the chapters — which merged this year — support VCONT. The Community Outreach Grant from the MOAA Foundation has helped VCONT aid homeless veterans and prevent an eviction or loss of utilities. The grants allowed VCONT to develop a program where the use of emergency funds could be reimbursed by the chapter, so veterans in need could receive immediate assistance.”

MOAA Charities Annual Report

2019 ANNUAL CAMPAIGN
The MOAA Foundation would like to offer a very special thanks to the many individual donors who contributed to last year’s annual campaign by donating in support of the foundation’s military family programs. We received $157,000 in individual donations in 2019, a 5% increase in individual giving year-over-year. That’s a significant achievement, and we are appreciative of your support.

MOAA FOUNDATION ANNUAL GIVING CAMPAIGN
The MOAA Foundation annual giving campaign challenges all MOAA members to donate at least $50 to the MOAA Foundation in 2019. Our goal is 3,000 contributors. Visit www.moaa.org/ to learn more.

Suzanne McCurdy is an Air Force veteran who is now an Army spouse; she and her husband have two children, aged 4 and 5. After seven years of active duty, she and her husband realized they weren’t going to get stationed together, so McCurdy left active duty and immediately experienced the struggles faced by military spouses. After learning that her military service didn’t provide many options for remote work, she attended the Milspo Academy and trained for a career in business development. Shortly after, she was hired on with Instant Teams and has enjoyed a flourishing remote career.

‘I’m feeling so grateful for the equipment I received from MOAA [through a Foundation program]. It was so much more than I expected. As a remote military spouse, I have learned to get by and do my job with the bare necessities. MOAA has allowed me to now do my job at a higher level of performance. I love that I can be present for my family without having to sacrifice my career.’

USES

Career Transition:
- Presented MOAA Military and Veteran Networking Forum: 950 registrants (military, veteran, spouse job seekers); and more than 90 companies participated.
- Conducted 90 “Marketing Yourself” on-installation career transition seminars for 1,652 attendees.
- Conducted three virtual career fairs with over 600 military, veteran, and spouse job seekers registered.

Professional Education Outreach:
- Completed 64 military installation visits to deliver the award-winning MOAA financial education and blended retirement system content to nearly 7,000 active duty military personnel, veterans, and their families.
- Our financial and benefits experts delivered 45 financial information classes to 1,381 military community attendees on the new blended military retirement system and strategic money management.

Military Spouse Professional Development:
- Conducted six all-day military spouse symposia at military installations and supported more than 4,000 spouses with professional development information and resources.
- Launched a grant program for military spouses to provide the hardware and software required to successfully telework after a PCS move.
- Received over 30 applications for remote work grants in 2019 and will award at least 10 spouses with remote work “kits” in 2019-2020.

Community Outreach:
- Increased the size of the Community Outreach grant program, increasing applications from 29 to 44, approved applications from 19 to 22, and disbursements from $75,000 to $79,000.

*Includes a one-time grant of $250,000 for a midterm election year education campaign. Without this adjustment, total Restricted Gifts for 2018 would be $186,602.
CMDR. MIKE YUNKER, USN

Cmdr. Mike Yunker has served in the Navy for over 19 years and has been approved for retirement later this year. He has served on two ships and has deployed twice including an individual augmentee assignment to Iraq. Ashore, he was billeted in multiple staff assignments in inventory management, new acquisition, and program management. After retirement, he plans on working in the supply chain industry or in a business operations sector position.

‘Thank you for the very informative workshop on salary negotiations at the recent Hiring our Heroes Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling [Washington, D.C.], Hiring Fair. This was my first event as I start to work my transition and retirement from the Navy into a new adventure. I took over four pages of notes — it was a lot of information, but I was tracking all through your discussion. I am glad I drove up from Richmond that morning!’
